RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Fill us with your love, O Lord, and we will sing for joy!
Llénanos de tu amor, oh Señor, y cantaremos de alegría.

Prayer of Saint Michael

Saint Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle. Be our defense against the wickedness and snares of the Devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray, and do thou, O Prince of the heavenly hosts, by the power of God, thrust into hell Satan, and all the evil spirits, who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls. Amen

Oracion de San Miguel

San Miguel Arcángel, defiéndenos en la lucha. Sé nuestro amparo contra la perversidad y acechanzas del demonio. Que Dios manifieste sobre él su poder, es nuestra humilde súplica. Y tú, oh Príncipe de la Milicia Celestial, con el poder que Dios te ha conferido, arroja al infierno a Satanás, y a los demás espíritus malignos que vagan por el mundo para la perdición de las almas. Amén.

This Sunday's readings invite us to reflect deeply on the nature of true wealth and the choices we make in pursuit of a meaningful life. The story of the rich young man in the Gospel resonates with many of us, particularly as we navigate our own lives filled with ambitions, desires, and the pressures of modern society.

In today's world, wealth is often viewed as the ultimate goal. The message is clear: money can solve our problems and alleviate our sorrows. As a young woman growing up, I was encouraged to prioritize education and career, to become "financially independent." This drive pushed me to work long hours and strive for success, as defined by society. For years, I immersed myself in my career as an agriculture teacher, focusing solely on my job while letting my personal life and faith take a backseat.

Years into my career, I faced a hard truth: despite my accomplishments, I was experiencing burnout, loneliness, and depression. I had worked diligently and achieved financial independence, yet I felt anything but fulfilled. It was during this challenging time that I began to reconnect with my Catholic faith. I started attending church more regularly, but I often found myself away from my home parish, Queen of Peace, traveling with students or trying to find a place to worship on the go. Yet, each time I returned to my parish, I felt a sense of belonging and joy that was missing from my daily life.

I realized that the time spent with my church community brought me happiness and alleviated my loneliness. I began to understand that my busy lifestyle was hindering my ability to engage with those who uplifted me. Reflecting on the passage, "I prayed, and prudence was given me," I felt this truth resonate within me. At the beginning of last year, I prayed for more Catholic friends, longing to surround myself with people who shared my values and faith. Miraculously, I found a job closer to home with a more manageable schedule, allowing me to prioritize both my work and my spiritual life.

The Gospel challenges us with the call to "Go, sell what you have, and give to the poor." Many of us might read this and think, "I'm not wealthy; I'm barely getting by." However, we can broaden our understanding of wealth. Our time and skills are invaluable resources. Where could we offer our gifts to the Church or in service to others? Are we seeking to build a community and forge deeper connections?

The essence of today's readings is that true treasures lie not in material possessions, but in the wisdom and love we cultivate in our relationships and the impact we have on those around us. In a world that often equates success with wealth, this Sunday's message reminds us that the most profound joys come from acts of kindness, community, and a heart open to serving others.

As we reflect this week, let us examine what we truly value. How can we use our resources—whether time, talents, or finances—to create a life that reflects love and purpose? It's a powerful invitation to let go of our attachments to material wealth and embrace the richness of a life lived in service to others. By making these choices, we not only enrich our own lives but also contribute to the greater good, finding fulfillment in the process.

Las lecturas de este domingo nos invitan a reflexionar profundamente sobre la naturaleza de la verdadera riqueza y las decisiones que tomamos en pos de una vida con sentido. La historia del joven rico del Evangelio resuena en muchos de nosotros, en particular cuando navegamos por nuestras propias vidas llenas de ambiciones, deseos y las presiones de la sociedad moderna.

En el mundo de hoy, la riqueza suele considerarse el objetivo final. El mensaje es claro: el dinero puede resolver nuestros problemas y aliviar nuestras penas. Cuando era joven, me animaban a priorizar la educación y la carrera profesional para ser "económicamente independiente". Este impulso me impulsó a trabajar muchas horas y luchar por el éxito, tal como lo define la sociedad. Durante años, me sumergí en mi carrera como profesora de agricultura, centrándome únicamente en mi trabajo mientras dejaba que mi vida personal y mi fe quedaran en segundo plano.

Años después de empezar mi carrera, me enfrenté a una dura verdad: a pesar de mis logros, estaba experimentando agotamiento, soledad y depresión. Había trabajado diligentemente y había logrado la independencia financiera, pero no me sentía realizada. Fue durante este tiempo difícil que comencé a reconectarme con mi fe católica. Comencé a asistir a la iglesia con más regularidad, pero a menudo me encontraba lejos de mi parroquia de origen, Reina de la Paz, viajando con estudiantes o tratando de encontrar un lugar para adorar mientras estaba en movimiento. Sin embargo, cada vez que regresaba a mi parroquia, sentía una sensación de pertenencia y alegría que faltaba en mi vida diaria.

Me di cuenta de que el tiempo que pasaba con mi comunidad de la iglesia me traía felicidad y aliviaba mi soledad. Comencé a entender que mi estilo de vida ajetreado estaba obstaculizando mi capacidad de relacionarme con quienes me elevaban. Al reflexionar sobre el pasaje: "Oré, y me fue dada prudencia", sentí que esta verdad resonaba dentro de mí. A principios del año pasado, oré por más amigos católicos, anhelando rodearme de personas que compartieran mis valores y mi fe. Milagrosamente, encontré un trabajo más cerca de casa con un horario más manejable, lo que me permitió priorizar tanto mi trabajo como mi vida espiritual.

El Evangelio nos desafía con el llamado a "Ve, vende lo que tienes y dalo a los pobres". Muchos de nosotros podríamos leer esto y pensar: "No soy rico; apenas me alcanza para vivir". Sin embargo, podemos ampliar nuestra comprensión de la riqueza. Nuestro tiempo y nuestras habilidades son recursos invaluableles. ¿Dónde podríamos ofrecer nuestros dones a la Iglesia o al servicio de los demás? ¿Estamos buscando construir una comunidad y forjar conexiones más profundas?

La esencia de las lecturas de hoy es que los verdaderos tesoros no están en las posesiones materiales, sino en la sabiduría y el amor que cultivamos en nuestras relaciones y el impacto que tenemos en quienes nos rodean. En un mundo que a menudo equipara el éxito con la riqueza, el mensaje de este domingo nos recuerda que las alegrías más profundas provienen de los actos de bondad, la comunidad y un corazón abierto a servir a los demás.

Al reflexionar esta semana, examinemos lo que realmente valoramos. ¿Cómo podemos usar nuestros recursos, ya sea tiempo, talentos o finanzas, para crear una vida que refleje amor y propósito? Es una poderosa invitación a dejar de lado nuestros apegos a la riqueza material y abrazar la riqueza de una vida vivida al servicio de los demás. Al tomar estas decisiones, no sólo enriquecemos nuestras propias vidas, sino que también contribuimos al bien común y encontramos satisfacción en el proceso.
